Travel Information for Those Arriving in Seville

1. Arrival to Lodging in the Center of Seville

1.1. From the San Pablo Airport

- The easiest way is by taxi. There is a fixed price, depending on the day and time, with small supplements for suitcases, detailed here: <https://www.aeropuerto-sevilla.com/transportes/taxis-aeropuerto-sevilla.htm#/search>. Once you reach this website, click on the flag of Great Britain in the upper-right-hand corner for an English version of the page. The total price of taxi service should not exceed 30 euros.
- There is also a public bus service, called the “EA Line,” that leaves the San Pablo Airport about every 20 minutes. Here is one source of information: <https://www.aeropuerto-sevilla.com/transportes/autobus-aeropuerto-sevilla.htm>. Again, click on the flag of Great Britain for an English version of the page. Here is another source: <https://www.tussam.es/es/avisos-generales/horario-linea-especial-aeropuerto-desde-el-02082021>. The bus makes seven stops on its way to the Plaza de Armas Bus Station in the center of Seville. The penultimate stop, “Paseo Colón,” is the one closest to the hotels detailed in the “About” tab of the Conference website. The price of the bus is 4 euros.

1.2. From the Santa Justa Train Station

- The Santa Justa Station, to which one arrives from Madrid and from all other points of origin, is quite close to the city center. Taking a taxi, though, would be easiest.
- Several public buses go from outside the station to the city center, but you have to make sure that you go in the inbound, rather than in the outbound, direction. The 21 and 32 lines go closest to the hotels detailed on the Conference website. Here is the website for TUSSAM, the Seville public bus system: <https://www.tussam.es/>.

1.3. From the Prado de San Sebastian Bus Station

- The Prado de San Sebastian Station is close to the city center and less than a five-minute walk to the College of Philology. You could walk in about fifteen minutes to most of the hotels on the Conference website, or take a taxi.

1.4. From the Plaza de Armas Bus Station

- The Plaza de Armas Station is also close to the city center. You could walk in about fifteen minutes to most of the hotels on the Conference website, or take a taxi.

2. Arrival to the Conference Registration Tables and Meeting Point in the College of Philology

Once you are in the center of Seville, getting to the College of Philology is easy. The College is located in a historic building (the “Real Fábrica de Tabacos de Sevilla”) on San Fernando Street (“la calle San Fernando”), between the beautiful fountain in the Puerta de Jeréz and the beautiful fountain in the Plaza Don Juan de Austria. San Fernando Street is pedestrian, but it serves as the path for a public-transportation tram, so please do be careful when walking on it.

There are two main entrances to the building in which the College of Philology is located. Counter-intuitively, the main entrance on San Fernando Street called the Rectorate Entrance (“la entrada al Rectorado”) is better than the main entrance on Palos de la Frontera Street called the College of Philology Entrance (“la entrada a la Facultad de Filología”). It is worth noting that Google Maps does not locate the College of Philology (“La Facultad de Filología de la Universidad de Sevilla”) in exactly the right place.

Once you have gone through the Rectorate Entrance, you walk straight ahead through two small courtyards and then continue on to the “Patio de la Cristalera,” the Patio of Stained Glass. The Conference registration tables and meeting point will be here in the Patio of Stained Glass.
